Q: Why do I get a "Dependent base item not found" error in Perl when constructing a hash? I have a hash that I'm creating from a list of records. Each record has a list of tags, and the goal is to map the tags to another hash as keys. I'm doing this with the Tie::Hash::NamedHash module from perl5.8.8. In my code, I get an error that says: Uninitialized value use($hash) in (eval $use) at... This is the code that I have: use

Tie::Hash::NamedHash; use strict; my $tflags = tie %flags,
'Tie::Hash::NamedHash', { 'tags' => [qw(tag1 tag2 tag3
tag4)], 'name' => 'flags', }; my %flags_hash; while (my $data = ) { foreach my $tag (@{$data->{'tags'}}) { my ($key,
$value) = split(/:/, $tag); $flags_hash{ $key } = $value; } }
__DATA__ a:tag1:1 b:tag2:1 c:tag2:2 d:tag1:3

I suspect this has something to do with the different ways that Perl and Tie::Hash::NamedHash parse the data in the foreach loop. I tried to use eval but that gave me an even more weird error: Can't call method "clear" without a package or object reference at (eval $use) line 1. If I remove the eval code, I still get the same error. I'm not sure what I'm doing wrong. A: You're using an a scalar (single quote) for a reference to the variable. my $tflags = tie %flags, 'Tie::Hash::NamedHash', { 'tags' => [qw(tag1 tag2 tag3 tag4)], 'name' => 'flags', }; You must use a tie call with a reference or using the complicated appendicitis. In the first group, 30 patients underwent appendicectomy and 147 underwent appendectomy. Complicated appendicitis was present in 18 patients, but a cause other than appendicitis was present in 27 patients. In the group of complicated appendicitis, the surgical approach (appendicectomy or appendectomy) was based on the symptoms (evaluated by the surgeon before operation), finding of the appendix, and peritoneal signs. The importance of appendicectomy in complicated acute appendicitis is discussed. The results of the two groups were analyzed and the value of the different parameters in the preoperative diagnosis of complicated appendicitis was evaluated.

Appendectomy versus appendicectomy in acute appendicitis. A retrospective study of 304 patients operated on with a diagnosis of acute appendicitis revealed 187 patients with uncomplicated acute appendicitis and 117 patients with

Should I combine alcohol with everything else? How about instead of doing lots of different shots, you focus on one beverage that you like and then have multiple variables? A lot of people do this by mixing orange juice with vodka. Instead of doing a bunch of different shots, mix different ingredients in one shot, as long as there's enough alcohol present so that all of it gets absorbed. It's a bit like eating a pizza in one bite. Mixing alcohol with other stuff is probably fine if you're mixing vodka with cough syrup or something equally sweet and highly flavored. For those who still want to do multiple shots, but are having a lot of trouble with the alcohol content, try to limit yourself to doing them with liquor that's at least 80 proof. That will give you at least 40 proof of booze ($80+40=120$ proof). I don't think it is a good idea to add ice to mixers. For that matter, I try to limit my use of "mixers". Mixers are generally not the best choice for a drink and is generally a case of 'too much of a good thing'. I would say that most people are playing the can't beat the shot game. That's fine up to a point (as in avoiding three shots of tequila) and when a drink gets too far out of control, people say they wish they had never started drinking. The better choice is to have a good beverage every once and while. Work with what you know. If its Bacardi,

there's no worse choice. Or anything else for that
